

New Phytologist Tansley Medal

For excellence in plant science

Calling all early career scientists!
Deadline for submissions for 2017: 30 November 2016

Win £2000 (GBP) and have your work highlighted in New Phytologist, one of the world's leading plant science journals

- The New Phytologist Tansley Medal is awarded annually in recognition of an outstanding contribution to research in plant science
- This is a global competition open to all plant scientists in the early stages of their career, and includes both student and post-doctoral researchers with up to five years experience, excluding career breaks, since gaining their PhD
- Selection is based on a two-stage process:
 - Stage 1) Submit your CV, a personal statement and reference: Deadline 30 November 2016
 - Stage 2) Shortlisted candidates will be invited to submit a single-authored Tansley insight review intended for publication: Deadline 31 March 2017
- All competition articles that are accepted after peer review will be published in New Phytologist and the Tansley Medal winner selected by the judges from these final papers
