

The Ecological Society of America's
Focus on Ecologists Project Presents:

Honorary Member Award

Stuart E. Bunn

The Honorary Member Award is given to a distinguished ecologist who has made exceptional contributions to ecology and whose principle residence and site of ecological research are outside the US and Canada.

Professor Stuart Bunn is Director of the Australian River Institute (Griffith University) and is one of Australia's leading freshwater scientists, earning national and international recognition for his outstanding contributions in water science and management. He has a respected international research profile with a large publication and citation record. He has pursued interdisciplinary collaborations and developed and led successful research programs, involving multiple partners and large research teams.